

FEATURED

MFG DAY
October 2nd, 2020

Technology
Computer Vision in the Military

Manufacturing
Constant Disruption

Workforce Efficiencies
Augmented Reality and Virtual Reality

Modern Manufacturing

The eighth annual Manufacturing Day is upcoming on October 2nd. This highly popular initiative to educate students and prospective employees about careers in modern manufacturing is sponsored by the Manufacturing Institute and founding partner, the Fabricators and Manufacturers Association (FMA).

Traditionally held on the first Friday of October, Manufacturing Day kicks off a series of events and open houses that showcase modern manufacturing technology and careers aimed at students, teachers, parents, job seekers and local community members.

Industry Today has long been an advocate of Manufacturing Day. Over the years, we've featured extensive coverage of the many events held to promote modern manufacturing as well as interviews with key sponsors. In getting ready for this year's Manufacturing Day, it's helpful to look back at what inspired its inception and how we've progressed.

Read more

Tweet

Arms Industry Goes for Computer Vision

Computer vision has long aided the arms industry but now, with new developments in AI, it's on the upswing as never before.

Read more

Tweet

Preparing for Foreseeable Change

How an adaptive manufacturing enterprise is essential for helping to prepare for change in a world filled with constant disruption.

Read more

Tweet

Preparing Businesses for Augmented & Virtual Reality

COVID-19 has expedited the desire for companies to launch virtual technologies to increase efficiencies. Here's what businesses need to know.

Read more

Tweet

NEWS

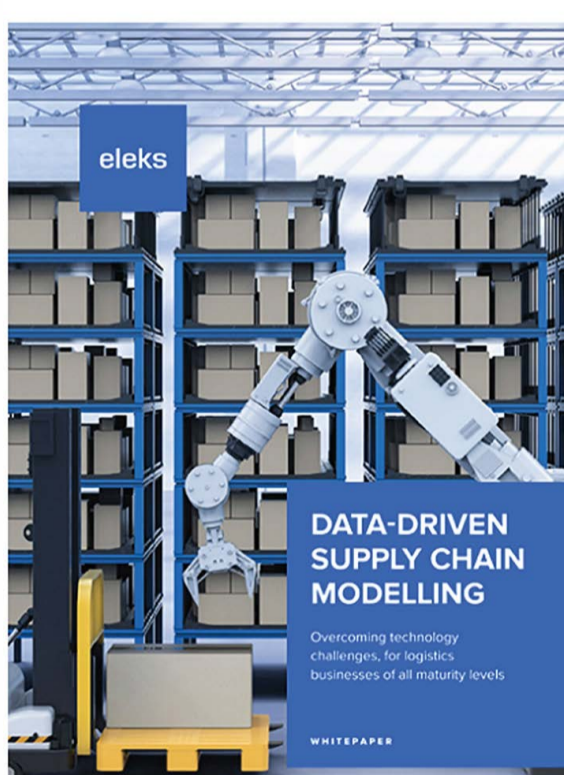

ELFA September Monthly Leasing and Finance Index

August new business volume down 24 percent year-over-year, 23 percent month-to-month, and 4 percent year-to-date.

Read more

Tweet

Data-driven Supply Chain Modelling

A technology guide addressing the needs of transportation companies of all sizes based on the Gartner's five-stage logistics maturity model.

Download the whitepaper

Tweet

Pandemic Ignites Supplier Demand for Early Payment

As suppliers seek new ways to accelerate cash flow, supply chain finance has become an attractive early payment option.

Read more

Tweet

CURRENT ISSUE

