

FEATURED

The Workforce
Manufacturing Labor

Technology
Industrial Data

Logistics
Infrastructure Bill

Manufacturing
Physical & Network Security

Honoring Manufacturing Labor

Scott Sherman, QAD's VP of Global Talent, honors manufacturing labor during this Labor Day – the backbone of our industry who keep it moving.

Read more

Tweet

Letting Industrial Data Scientists Do What They Do Best

As digital transformation continues, here's how Industrial Data Scientists can help overcome challenges at industrial facilities.

Read more

Tweet

How Will the new Infrastructure Bill Benefit Logistics?

With the $1.2 trillion package now through the Senate, what could it mean for the logistics space?

Read more

Tweet

Optimizing Physical and Network Security in a World of Change

Manufacturers can use today's technologies to safeguard people, places, data, and assets—plus add insight into new business prospects.

Read more

Tweet

NEWS

Manufacturing Institute Uses VR to Train Veterans

The Manufacturing Institute announced an ambitious reskilling initiative that uses virtual reality to prepare veterans for in-demand jobs.

Read more

Tweet

SVR Detects Drones to Protect Critical Infrastructure

Spherical View Radar by Nology NA incorporates next generation bistatic radar technology to detect small drones with unmatched performance.

Read more

Tweet

Healing Invisible Injuries in the Construction Industry

Construction workers are far too often overlooked when it comes to mental health outreach and initiatives. This needs to change.

Read more

Tweet

Disaster Preparedness and Emergency Response

Rapidly standing up two COVID-19 hospitals at the height of the pandemic offers a master class in disaster preparedness and response.

Read more

Tweet