

Over two-thirds of students feel that their education is not evolving to meet workplace needs. Three out of four adults agree.

New Harris Report on Education Insights and Career Readiness

Declining student curiosity and career readiness gaps are impacting the future workforce. Educators need support to equip students with 21st-century skills, and corporate partnerships can help bridge this gap. By offering resources, technology, and career exploration opportunities, industry leaders can drive workforce readiness and help shape the next generation of innovative talent.

Download the Report

