

Facility Downtime? See How JLL Took Control with Predictive Insights

Managing a facility with thousands of assets brings constant challenges—unexpected breakdowns, high repair costs, and limited maintenance resources. Relying on reactive or time-based maintenance often results in unplanned downtime and strained budgets.

Recently, JLL, a commercial real estate management firm partnered with Azima DLI to proactively monitor over 1,200 critical assets across multiple facilities. As a result, they significantly reduced equipment failures, streamlined maintenance operations, and protected millions of dollars' worth of infrastructure.
